DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF WASHINGTON COUNTY

VOLUME III.

SPRINGFIELD, KY., WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1907.

NUMBER 45

SUPPLEMENTAL REGISTRATION

On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of Week Preceding November Election.

Voters who failed to register on the day set apart as the regular registration day, may, under the conditions prescribed below, register on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of the week preceding the November election and designated as supplemental registration days. Any one failing to register will not be entitled to vote. This law applies to incorporated towns only, and in Washington county none but the three Springfield precincts is included. Voters residing in these precincts must register to vote.

Any person entitled to register who was necessarily absent from the city of his residence during the days allowed for registration herein, or who was ill during said time, or who was unable to attend the place of registration on account of sickness of some named member of his family, may have his name placed upon the registry for the precinct in which he lives, by attending the county clerk's office on Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday of week preceding the November election, and making the affidavit before the clerk showing the facts required to be stated in the registry, and showing the absence or sickness referred to above.

DIES IN CALIFORNIA.

Dr. J. F. Rinehart, Former Springfield Citizen, Succumbs to Appendicitis.

A telegram received Monday evening by Mrs. Mollie Wycoff announced the death of her nephew, Dr. J. F. Rinehart, in Oakland, Cal.

Dr. Rinehart had been ill for several days from an attack of appendicitis, and on last Saturday underwent an operation, from the effects of which he died.

Dr. Rinehart was born and reared in Washington county, and for many years was a practicing physician in this city. He built up a lucrative practice and was one of Washington county's leading physicians. He was a man of progressive spirit and contributed considerably to the upbuilding of Springfield. He moved to California about six years ago and has since resided in that State. He had attained to much prominence in Oakland as a physician. Dr. Rinehart was married to Miss Mallie Raybourn, daughter of the late Joe Raybourn, of the Mackville neighborhood. His wife and several children survive.

SUCCESSFUL MEETING

In Progress at Bethlehem Church This Week.

The protracted meeting in progress at Bethlehem church is resulting in much good to the community. Not only is the church being revived, but much interest is being manifested among the unconverted. Two additions to the church thus far.

Rev. W. D. Moore, of Anderson county, and Rev. J. W. Campbell, are assisting the pastor, Rev. R. L. Purdom.

The meetings will continue another week.

Valuable Mare.

P. S. Barber has sold to W. S. Gibbs his premium mare colt, Miss Barber, by Chestnut Dare, dam Black Bean, for $150. This is the fourth colt of this mare sold to Mr. Gibbs, the four bringing $800. Black Bean has been shown thirteen times and each time carried off the blue ribbon. Her colts have all proved premium winners.

Death of Miss Mattie McCarley.

Miss Mattie McCarley died at her home in Lancaster, Ky., last Saturday afternoon from an attack of inflammation of the stomach. The body was buried Sunday afternoon at Lancaster. Miss McCarley was a sister of Mrs. J. F. Pettus, of this city, and had frequently visited here. She was well known in Springfield and popular with all her acquaintances. Mr. and Mrs. Pettus were at her bedside when she died.

PREFERS TO REMAIN WITH HIS CHURCH

Rev. Williams Declines Secretaryship of State Sunday School Board.

The members of the Baptist church and the people generally of Springfield received with no little degree of pleasure on last Sunday morning the announcement from Rev. W. H. Williams that he had definitely decided to decline the Secretaryship of Baptist State Sunday School Board and would continue the pastorate of the church at this place.

As announced in last week's issue of The Sun, Rev. Williams was tendered, by a unanimous vote of the State Board, the position of State Secretary, a position of high honor and responsibility. He has been devoted to his pastoral duties here and at no time, while he had the matter under consideration, was he prone to enter a new field, and his determination to remain with his congregation is a matter of mutual satisfaction.

The members of the Springfield church knowing that their pastor, Rev. Wm. H. Williams, had been elected to fill an important position on the Sunday School Board of Kentucky, called a church meeting on Sunday morning, Oct. 13, 1907, when the following resolutions were offered and unanimously adopted:

"Whereas: We have been informed that the Baptist Sunday School Board of Kentucky has elected our pastor, Rev. Wm. H. Williams, to the position of Secretary of said Board, thereupon be it resolved:

"That we, the members of the Springfield Baptist church, most respectfully and most seriously protest against his accepting said position, and most earnestly and lovingly request him not to accept said offer.

"That we believe they can get some other man who can do their work; but feel we cannot find any one who can finish the work he has so well begun in our Church, our County and our Association, and that we feel this Master's cause needs him most here."

The pastor had no notice of the called meeting, and was going on with the regular eleven o'clock service when just after the invocation the Moderator, J. W. Bush, moved out in front of the pulpit and called the meeting, and after the above resolutions had been read, stated that it was a very important matter to the church and requested every one to vote for or against it by a rising vote, whereupon, while the choir sang "Blessed be the 'Ties,'" each individual in the house, a large audience being present, arose to their feet and registered their votes in favor of the resolutions.

HUMAN BONES ARE FOUND

While Excavating on T. S. Mayes' Lot on Main Street Saturday.

A box containing human bones was unearthed on the lot of Mr. T. S. Mayes, on Main street, by some workmen who were engaged in excavating on last Saturday evening.

The box was buried three feet in the ground and was in the rear of the lot. It had apparently been buried many years. The bones were those of a man. Only the skull was missing.

Whether the body was placed there years ago after it had served its purpose in a dissecting room, or to cover up a crime is not known, and in all probabilities never will be.

PUBLIC SPEAKING APPOINTMENTS.

On Monday, October 28, (county court day) the citizens of Washington county will be given an opportunity to hear two of the foremost Democratic campaign speakers in the State, the Hon. Harry W. McChesney and J. Morgan Chinn. The speaking will take place in Springfield at 1 p. m.

Mr. McChesney is the present Secretary of State of Kentucky. His speeches always captivate his audiences, are full of humor, logic and facts, and Washington county Democracy is fortunate to secure his services in this campaign.

Mr. Chinn is the present Clerk of the Appellate Court. As a campaign speaker he has deservedly won an enviable reputation throughout the State.

Hon. A. O. Stanley.

On Friday, Nov. 1, at 1 o'clock p. m. Hon. A. O. Stanley, Congressman from the Second district, will address the voters of Washington county at the Court House in Springfield.

Hon. T. Scott Mayes.

Hon. T. Scott Mayes will address the voters at the following times and places:

Fenwick, Saturday night, Oct. 19, at 7 o'clock.

T. S. Mayes and J. Morgan Chinn.

Mackville, Tuesday night, Oct. 29, at 7 o'clock.

Texas, Wednesday night, Oct. 30, at 7 o'clock.

Hon. W. C. McChord.

Hon. W. C. McChord will address the voters at the following times and places:

Texas, Friday, Oct. 18, at 2 o'clock.

Mackville, Saturday, Oct. 19, at 2 o'clock.

Cardwell, Monday, Oct. 21, at 2 o'clock.

Sharpsville, Tuesday, Oct. 22, at 2 o'clock.

Black & Johnson's store, Wednesday, Oct. 23, at 2 o'clock.

Polin, Thursday, Oct. 24, at 2 o'clock.

Mooreville, Friday, Oct. 25, at 2 p. m.

McIntire, Saturday, Oct. 26, at 2 o'clock.

WASHINGTON COUNTY'S METHODS WILL BE ADOPTED

By Tobacco Growers Throughout State In Manner of Handling and Storing Pooled Crops.

At a meeting of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Association of Kentucky, held in Winchester on Tuesday of last week, the methods practiced by the Washington County American Society of Equity in the handling of pooled tobacco were heartily approved, and a resolution introduced and passed asking other counties to adopt the plans. Washington county is the father of the plan to have a warehouse centrally located for the purpose of storing the pooled crop and have it graded and handled by an expert employed by the society.

The meeting at Winchester was held for the purpose also of determining whether or not the Association should raise a crop of tobacco next year. This matter was referred back to the different counties for the purpose of obtaining the sentiments of the members of the Association throughout the State on the question, said views to be reported at another meeting of the Executive Committee of the Association which will be held in Winchester on the 29th of this month, when definite action will be taken.

Mr. W. C. McChord, of this city, was highly praised at the meeting in Winchester for the valuable services he has rendered to the Tobacco Growers of the State, and it was the consensus of opinion of the Executive Committee that he was without a peer in the work of advancing the cause of the Association. Mr. W. A. Clements, of this city, who was present at the meeting, in an interview with a Sun representative, stated that Mr. McChord was roundly cheered whenever his name was spoken at the meeting. Mr. Clements says the meeting of the Executive Committee was very enthusiastic.

THE GAME LAWS.

Sportsmen Should Observe Statutes Prohibiting Slaughter of Game Out of Season.

With the advent of frost hunters are cleaning their guns and coaching their dogs preparatory for the opening of the game season. It would be well for sportsmen at this time to familiarize themselves with the game laws of the State and to strictly observe them.

The following sections of the Kentucky statutes pertain to the game laws:

"No person shall catch, kill, or pursue with such intent, or have the same in possession after it has been caught or killed, any quail, partridge or pheasant, between the first day of January and the fifteenth day of November in each year.

"No person shall kill or pursue with such intent, or have in his possession when so killed any rabbit, or squirrel between the fifteenth day of September and the fifteenth day of November in each year. Provided, any one may catch rabbits with dogs, or in snares."

A Busy Week For Postmasters.

The postmasters of Washington county, as everywhere else in the United States, will be a busy lot of Uncle Sam's employees this week, as the result of an official order issued from the

Entertain In Honor Of Bridal Couple.

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Wharton entertained at euchre Monday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Clements. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Clements, Mrs. W. D. McElroy, Mrs. T. B. Blanford, Misses Katie Cain, Willie Knott, Katie Wharton, Mary Lee Simms, Cecelia Simms, Mattie Robertson and Messrs. Joe Clements and W. H. Wharton.

The first prize, a China hair receiver, was awarded to Miss Mattie Robertson, while the consolation prize, a box of candy, was captured by Mr. J. C. Clements.

LIGHT DOCKET THIS TERM

Few Criminal and Civil Cases For Disposal at This Term of Circuit Court.

With the Fall term of the Washington County Circuit Court not quite two weeks off the indications thus far are for a very quiet term.

The docket is comparatively small. The indictments number fifty-five, twenty-one of these being old indictments, and the majority being misdemeanor charges. There are no murder charges on docket, nor other indictments of a startling nature.

There are seventy-two civil cases, fifty of these having been continued from former terms.

The docket will doubtless consume the entire term of court.

TARANTULA, ALIAS "GIRAFFE"

Captured On Banana Stalk at Hagan Bros. Store.

Hagan Bros.' store was the scene of some "monkey shins" and "get-away" acts on the part of Ike Young, the colored delivery boy, on last Friday evening, when he discovered a tarantula on a stalk of bananas in front of the store.

The negro made no effort to ascertain the tarantula's business there nor did he attempt to hold conversation with his new found friend. He entered the door frantically exclaiming "There is a giraffe thing out there."

Hagan Bros. captured the tarantula, after considerable difficulty, and have it on display at their store. They will preserve it in alcohol.

Cooking School.

Several ladies of Springfield are this week receiving instructions in the culinary art at a cooking school organized by Mrs. Johnson, who will remain here for two weeks. Mrs. Johnson has a class of twelve.

MT. ZION.

Quarterly meeting was held at Mt. Zion church Sunday. Owing to the absence of the Presiding Elders it was presided over by the pastor, Rev. Eversole.

The farmers of this section are now busy preparing their ground to sow wheat.

Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Bayne visited at the home of Mrs. Baily Pinkston last Wednesday.

Mr. J. J. Dyer and wife have returned home, after a visit to friends and relatives near Harrodsburg.

Mrs. Kate Williams and son, Tom Marshall, and Mrs. Chas. Williams and little son attended the Williams reunion at Bardonia last Sunday.

Mrs. Martha Graham has returned to her home in Louisville, after a several weeks' stay with her father at this place.

Miss Sallie Mae Williams has returned home on account of the Millersburg College burning down.

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Bishop, of Springfield, spent Sunday with the latter's parents.

Mrs. Jas. S. Hays was in Bloomfield one day last week on business.

REMARKABLE LONGEVITY

Of McElroy Family, Now Enjoying Reunion In This City. Ages of Ten Children Aggregate 693 Years

A family of ten children, the oldest eighty-one years and the youngest sixty years, their combined ages aggregating 693 years, is the remarkable distinction enjoyed by the McElroy family, of this city. Every member of the family enjoys good health and is well preserved.

The arrival of Mr. Hugh L. McElroy, of Kansas City, Mo., and Mrs. Martha J. McDowell, of Danville, Monday, brings together every member of the family, with the exception of Mrs. Susan Field, wife of Judge Emmett Field, of Louisville, who was detained at home.

The names of the brothers and sisters, together with their ages, are as follows: Mrs. Mary R. Hughes, of Bloomfield, Nelson county, aged 81; Mrs. Palmer Grundy, Springfield, aged 79; Mr. Chas. R. McElroy, Springfield, aged 77; Mr. Hugh L. McElroy, Kansas City, Mo., aged 75; Mr. A. C. McElroy, Springfield, aged 72; Mrs. Martha J. McDowell, Danville, aged 70; Mrs. Nicholas McDowell, of Danville, aged 65; Mr. Wm. L. McElroy, Springfield, aged 63; Mrs. Emmett Field, Louisville, aged 61; Mr. John I. McElroy, Springfield, aged 60.

PROTRACTED MEETING

In Progress at Christian Church This Week.

A series of meetings are being held at the Christian church this week. The pastor, Eld. W. F. Rogers, is being assisted by Eld. G. W. Dick, of Bourbon county. Eld. Dick is a pulpit orator of considerable note. His sermons abound with logic and the people should not fail to hear him.

The meetings were begun Monday night and will be continued to the close of next week.

WILLISBURG.

Mr. and Mrs. Kent Rogers and two children, of Fenwick, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ash and Mrs. Belle Birch spent Sunday with Mrs. J. K. Wells.

DEATH OF TWO AGED CITIZENS

Scruggsville Neighbor- hood Loses Two Prom- inent and Upright Citizens.

Scruggsville, Ky.

Again that dreaded visitor, death, has passed through our community and robbed us of two of our oldest and respected citizens, Henderson Hardin and Joseph Reddick. Henderson Hardin died at his home on Friday morning, Oct. 4. He had been in delicate health for several years, but until just a few days before his death had been able to go about. He was seventy-four years old and had been a member of Rock Bridge Baptist church for a number of years. He will be sadly missed by the church and Sunday school, as he attended so faithfully and regularly. He is survived by several children and grandchildren to whom we extend our most heartfelt sympathy.

Joseph Reddick, more commonly known to everybody as Uncle Joe, died on Saturday, Oct. 3, in the 75th year of his life. There never lived a truer old man to right principle than Uncle Joe. He was honest to a penny in all his dealings. Although a cripple all his life there never was a more active or energetic person ever lived. In his early life he used to haul freight to and from Louisville and in his later years he has run a huckster wagon over the country, and on his last trip he was taken seriously ill and never was able to be out any more. He never professed religion until about 14 years ago and since that time has lived a consistent member of the Rock Bridge church. He is survived by his wife, seven children, sixty grandchildren, twenty-two great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild. May God comfort the bereaved ones in this their great sorrow is the wish of the writer.

These two old citizens, whose deaths we have chronicled, were brothers-in-law, having married sisters, who were the daughters of Lewis and Anna Harvey, who came from Virginia in the early settlement of this community, and a very striking coincidence is that these two were grandfathers of L. H. Hardin's children, so by these deaths they were bereft of both grandfathers at the same time.

The welcome showers which have fallen in the last few days and which were so badly needed, have revived the spirit of energy and industry in the hearts of our farmers and many of them are now busy sowing the golden grain. But still our hearts do even grow sad at this seedling time for in it we realize that another year of our lives has been spent and that we are fast hastening on to that bourne from which no traveler ever returns, and as we notice the falling of the leaves it seems to present a picture to our minds that seems so real, that as we look back on springtime it represents our youth, and summer our manhood, and autumn that we are fast passing down the stream of time. But, alas, winter, we all know too well its significance.

The Saints at this place are holding a meeting under the leadership of Bro. Chapel, from Adair county, assisted by three ladies whose names we have not ascertained.

Marion County Marriages.

Miss Nannie Demaree, who has been visiting relatives in this community, has returned home, accompanied by her cousin, Miss Sallie Hendren, and also Miss Effie Gordon.

The marriage of Mr. Len Wheatley, of this city, and Miss Lucy Thomas, of the Calvary neighborhood, has been announced to take place Tuesday, October 22, at Calvary.

A double wedding was celebrated at Raywick Tuesday when Mr. J. A. Dant and Miss Rose E. Brady and Mr. J. G. Bryan and Miss Catherine Dant were united in the holy bonds of wedlock.

Mr. William Metcalfe and Miss Julia Etta Newton were married at Rural Cross Tuesday. The groom is a prosperous young man of Louisville and his bride is the daughter of Mr. T. C. Newton, of this county.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Eyle, of this city, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Lucy Underwood Lyle, to Mr. Samuel E. Blackburn, of Louisville. The wedding will be solemnized this month.

Republican Speaking.

Hon. Augustus E. Willson, Republican nominee for Governor, will address the voters of Washington county in Springfield on Monday, October 28, (county court day) at 1 o'clock, p. m.

"Pneumonia's Deadly Work" had so seriously affected my right lung," writes Mrs. Fannie Connor, of Rural Route 1, Georgetown, Tenn., "that I coughed continuously night and day and the neighbor's prediction—consumption—seemed inevitable, until my husband brought home a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery, which in my case proved to be the only real cough cure and restorer of weak, sore lungs." When all other remedies utterly fail, you may still win in the battle against lung and throat troubles with New Discovery, the REAL CURE. Guaranteed by Hayden & Robertson, druggists. 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

BRYAN PAID HIS OWN WAY On Tour of Kentucky.--Willson's Charge That He Was Paid Is Maliciously False.

In an open letter, Judge Henry B. Hines, chairman of the Democratic State Campaign Committee, has characterized as false the statement made by Augustus E. Willson, Republican nominee for Governor, in Owensboro, that William Jennings Bryan was paid for his two days' campaigning tour in Kentucky. Judge Hager uses strong language in his denial of the statement, and says that the Democrats of Kentucky will resent the statement of the Republican nominee for Governor at the polls in November. The letter of Judge Hines follows:

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 10, 1907.—Augustus E. Willson's statement at Owensboro that William J. Bryan was paid money by the Kentucky Democrats to come to Kentucky to speak in behalf of the Democratic State ticket was not only untrue and without the slightest semblance of truth, but was maliciously false and unbecoming for one who seeks to be Governor of Kentucky. To say about one of the nation's most distinguished and foremost men, Mr. Willson knew his statement was false for he could have had no excuse, reason or fact to support his statement, and as chairman of the Democratic State Campaign Committee, I made the arrangements for Mr. Bryan to come to Kentucky. He was not paid a cent for his speeches, and even paid his expenses out of his own pocket. Mr. Willson's charge will be resented by Kentucky Democrats at the polls in November.

HENRY B. HINES.

The Price of Health.

Mr. Clifton Kidwell and wife spent Sunday with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Chesser.

COMPARISON OF RECORDS

Of Bradley and Beckham in Use of Pardoning Powers Shows
Latter up In Favorable Light.

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 9.—Owing to misrepresentation by Republican campaign speakers of the record of Gov. Beckham in the matter of granting pardons to convicted persons during the seven years he has been Chief Executive, done for the evident purpose of making a favorable showing for former Gov. Bradley, Secretary Leigh, of the State Department, has made an inspection of those records with the following result:

Pardons of felonies during the administration of Gov. Bradley for four years, from 1895 to 1899, 448. This includes several commutations from death to life sentence, pardons of felonies before trial, and convicts who were detained through no fault of their own from entering service immediately after conviction.

Pardons of felonies during the administration of Gov. Beckham for (nearly) eight years, from February 3, 1900, to October 9, 1907, 355. This includes several commutations from death to life sentence, pardons of felonies before trial, and convicts who were detained through no fault of their own from entering service immediately after conviction.

The statements of the Republican press regarding pardons issued by Gov. Beckham includes paroles to convicts. These are granted by the State Prison Commission, composed of three men elected by the General Assembly, and over whose action the Governor has no control whatever, and who can speak for themselves.

The list also includes the large number of remissions granted by the Governor in the cases of Louisville druggists, confectioners and others, who were arraigned by Magistrate Huffman, of that city, for Sunday selling, and which remissions were requested and approved by leading citizens of Louisville. The list also includes the restorations to citizenship by the Governor. The exact number of these has not yet been ascertained by the Secretary from the records, but he says they will not be found nearly so numerous as the record of the Republican Governor will show.

The records of the Bradley administration show that in the matter of restoration to citizenship they were granted largely in the cases of negro ex-convicts. This record, Secretary Leigh says, shows the restoration of as many as seventeen negroes in a single day.

The Beckham records show that the Governor, during his seven years of office, commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence imposed in only five cases. Two of the five were negroes, who had no influence behind them, and a third was declared insane by a court of justice.

Doing Business Again.

"When my friends thought I was about to take leave of this world, on account of indigestion, nervousness and general debility," writes A. A. Chisholm, Treatwell, N. Y., "and when it looked as if there was no hope left, I was persuaded to try Electric Bitters, and I rejoice to say they are curing me. I am now doing business again as of old, and am still gaining daily." Best tonic medicine on earth. Guaranteed by Hayden & Robertson, druggists. 50c.

C. C. McCHORD —HONORED—

Elected President of National Association of Railroad Commissioners.

Washington, Oct. 11.—C. C. McChord, president of the Kentucky Railroad Commission, was to-night elected president of the National Association of Railroad Commissioners, which adjourned after a four days' session in this city. The honor came to Mr. McChord unanimously. While a large majority of the 125 delegates to the convention are Republicans, there was not a dissenting voice to his election.

He was placed in nomination by the Maine Railroad Commissioner, B. F. Chadburn, and the nomination was seconded by O. P. Gethlin, of Ohio. Both made complimentary speeches in behalf of the Kentucky Commissioner, and his election was followed by an enthusiastic demonstration.

Considerable surprise was manifested among the delegates over the fact that Mr. McChord has opposition for reelection in Kentucky. He has proved such an all-around, capable officer, his election to the presidency of the national convention testifying to the high regard in which he is held, that it was taken for granted that the Republicans in Kentucky fully endorsed his record.

His course in putting up a candidate against him receives no support at the hands of a single Republican delegate to the convention.

The convention has proven one of the most important yet held. In the opinion of the delegates it has done much toward bringing about closer relations between the State and national commissioners. Hereafter there will be frequent interchanges of opinion on matters affecting either State or national legislation.

With this end in view President McChord has appointed a Committee on Legislation, of which he is the ex-officio chairman, its membership also including Chairman Knapp, of the Interstate Commerce Commission. This committee expects to meet in Washington shortly before Congress convenes and a number of amendments having the approval of both the Interstate Commerce Commissioners and State Commissioners will be presented for enactment into law.

TEXAS.

Mrs. J. D. Peterson has returned home from Louisville, where she had been to buy a stock of millinery goods.

Miss Mary Miller and Mr. Gill Hardin were married at the home of Rev. R. L. Purdon on last Wednesday evening. Both belong to the Loretto neighborhood.

Mrs. W. E. Wilham and children, of Louisville, are guests of her parents at this place.

Mrs. H. G. Peterson and children have returned home, after a several weeks visit to relatives in Chicago, Ill. Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Peterson, Master P. C. W. Peterson and Lucian Purdon were in Louisville last week.

Miss Virgie Mayes is able to be out again after an illness of about two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Harve Key left Monday for Hot Springs, Ark., for the benefit of Mr. Key, who is in very bad health.

Last Warning To Taxpayers.

Your taxes for 1907 are due, and the penalty will go on November 1. After that date taxes can not be paid to me and a tax warrant will be issued against you by the county clerk and executed within ten days thereafter, making an additional cost to you at 18 per cent.

Come in before Nov. 1 and save additional cost of execution and sale. Don't let this matter skip your mind. Nov. 1. J. S. OSBOURN, S. W. C.

Bitten By a pider.

Through blood poisoning caused by a spider bite, John Washington, of Bosqueville, Tex., would have lost his leg, which became a mass of running sores, had he not been persuaded to try Bucklen's Arnica Salve. He writes: "The first application relieved, and four boxes healed all the sores." Heals every sore. 25c. at Haydon & Robertson, druggists.

CARDWELL.

After a several weeks' absence from The Sun we will try to give a few happenings.

Mr. Thomas P. McMillen and Miss Lillie Wilham, of this place, drove to Rev. J. A. Sims Sunday afternoon and were quietly married and returned to his father's Sunday night.

Mrs. Lavina Darling, of Jacksonville, Ill., is expected to arrive in a few days to visit relatives and friends.

Say, girls, did you know that 1,002 girls arrived in New York Sept. 28th from Europe looking for good husbands. Such a pity a few of those girls didn't get off at Cardwell as our handsome widowers are now going to Boyle and Mercer counties looking for wives. Get busy, girls, these widowers have got to have them.

The sale of John Rutherford's last Tuesday was well attended. Every thing sold well. One mare $101.50, horse $71, cows as high as $67.50. Mr. Rutherford and his family left Monday for Mount Zion, Ill.

J. F. Hooper and family and James Warner and wife left Monday for Mount Zion, Ill., where they will make their future homes.

Mr. W. L. Graham bought last week of Frank and Ben Simms, of Springfield, two very fine two-year-old jacks at $500 each.

Died, on the 25th of September, Uncle Hardin Milburn, aged about eighty-seven years. He had been a member of the Baptist church for sixty-one years. Interment at Mt. Freedom the following day.

L. E. Perkins sold his farm of 663 acres to George Warner for $1200 cash.

Robert Shelton sold his farm of 72 acres to Dan Yeast, of Cornishville, for $1,400 cash. W. L. Graham sold his half interest in the Enoch Royalty farm of 105 acres to his partner, J. T. Mobley, for $1,788 cash, making the farm cost Mobley $3,576. This is a fine farm. Possession Dec. 1, 1907.

Graham & Perkins sold to J. C. Horn, of Harrodsburg, one four-year-old horse for $185.

Walter & Colman received a carload of cattle here at 4 cents last week.

Kyler & Wilham sold to Sanders, Norton & Co. a lot of cattle and 100 hogs last week at different prices. Cattle 22 cents up and hogs 5 1/2 to 6 cents.

E. G. Holiday bought of J. F. Reynolds one pony for $65.

W. L. Graham bought of J. D. Keeling one mare and mule for $220.

J. F. Hooper sold to J. E. Sims one mare for $207.50.

W. H. Littrell sold to Bunk Deringer one mare and mule for $290.

Several more land deals are on foot at this place. It would be a good place for a real estate man out here.

Elect Officers.

(Falcon.)

The American Society of Equity of Marion county met here Monday and re-organized by electing the following officers: Robert Durrett, President; George Mattingly, Secretary, and John B. Wathen, Treasurer.

BROODER CHICKS.

Methods Employed by a Capable Poultry Woman in Raising Them.

Mrs. C. B. Walker of Brownsburg, Ind., thus explains her method of raising brooder chicks for the benefit of the readers of American Poultry Journal: The first thing after the chicks are out of the shell and dry we take them to the brooder, being sure the heat is not less than 65 degrees. We never feed until the chick is about forty-eight hours old; then we give dry breadcrumbs mixed with hard boiled egg, and a little bit of black pepper also. I dry the eggshell and pulverize this and mix in feed, which I find the chicks are very fond of. This we feed for two or three days, with plenty of water or milk. The chicks should be fed only as much as they can eat clean, allowing no food to be left over. As it is better to feed three or four times a day, I mix the feed of the brooder with paper, as this can easily be removed with all filth and burned, this being done every day. After the chicks are a week old we make corn bread, as for table use, using pepper and eggshell. We give the chicks three times a day "or as often as chicks are hungry," with a little fresh meat ground fine. We always keep a small pan of grit in brooder so chicks can go to this at will. Now, to the brooder we attach a box for the run, the box being four feet long and one and a half feet wide. In this we have plenty of alfalfa litter on floor, with small grain, such as kafir corn, cracked corn or wheat thrown in, so this will give the chicks plenty of exercise. When they are a week old we raise the small door of brooder and let them into this run, which you will find they greatly enjoy. At three weeks we begin to give potatoes, cabbage or any convenient vegetable for green food. We also find they are very fond of onion chopped fine. We never feed sloppy foods or mashies to young chicks, as we think these are the cause of so much bowel trouble. Right here let me say I find nothing so good for this trouble as ginger tea—T. Thompson's of ginger, with a teaspoonful of boiling water, after cooling. You will find the chicks are fond of this. Be sure there is no other water they can get to. We give them drink often while trouble lasts, if it appears. It will be all right to give them this drink once a week until five or six weeks old. Keep before them plenty of grit and charcoal, and as far as feeding is concerned the chicks will grow to be healthy and happy if everything connected with the brooder is kept perfectly clean. After the first week we reduce the temperature of brooder to 75 degrees and the fourth week to about 60 degrees.

Diets For Duck Raisers.

Ducks are much easier raised than chickens. They are not retarded in growth by the many diseases the chicks must contend with.

The best remedy for duck ailments is plenty of clean, raw onion in the mash, and a dry, soft bed.

When you desire ducks for egg production have four to five ducks with an unrelated drake. Two ducks and one drake produce too large a percentage of drakes.

Do not let the ducks run with fowls. Disease is sure to visit the chickens that are allowed to drink from the vessel the ducks have paddled in.

Always catch a duck by the neck; too often their legs are broken by being caught by them.

Male and Female Guineas.

Authorities on guinea raising claim that it is always best, no matter how small a flock you may have, to have two or more males running with the hens. As a rule one cock guinea is enough for every four hens, but sometimes the birds will pair. Some breeders claim that it is best to breed them in pairs. There is only one absolutely certain way of telling the male from the female and that is by the call or cry. The female has a peculiar call which is never uttered by the male and resembles "Buckwhet" or "Come Back." The call of the male is a shrill, rasping scream.

Preserving Eggs.

Eggs should keep quite well for two or three months in a cool dry cellar. They would deteriorate somewhat in that time, but would probably be stale, not decomposed. Eggs in cold storage are kept in a cold dry air. Dampness in the storage rooms will affect the pastebored fillers in the cases and impart a most disagreeable odor and taste of wet brown cardboard to the eggs. So far as I have seen reports of tests with water glass, says a writer in Farm-Poultry, the eggs have been put in stone jars and the jars covered.

Why Keep Mongrels?

If the production of eggs is the most valuable branch of poultry culture, how, asks the Feather, can any one who may be engaged even to a greater or less extent in their production be so neglectful of their own interests, as to brush aside the only valuable feature of success, and to hold on to the mongrel product, which scarcely ever pays for its keep?

How to Make the Molt Easy.

Having fowls come through the molt in good condition is wholly a matter of good food and care, backing up (or supporting) the naturally good constitutional strength and vigor. In other words, it is having the birds in first class condition when they go into the molt and then helping them by good food and good care.

American Varieties the Best.

The British Fancier thinks that the American varieties of fowls—the Rocks and Wyandottes—are the best general purpose fowls in existence.

WELL-MERITED PRAISE OF FAITHFUL OFFICIAL.

The following resolutions were unanimously adopted at a meeting of the Bowling Green Business Men's Protective Association:

Whereas, The Bowling Green Business Men's Protective Association has learned through the public press that there is a possibility of the Hon. C. C. McChord, Chairman of the Railroad Commission of Kentucky, having an opponent in his race for re-election as Railroad Commissioner, and that some of the interests whose hostility Mr. McChord has incurred by the faithful discharge of his duties as Chairman of the Railroad Commission are endeavoring to encompass his defeat, be it

Resolved; By the Bowling Green Business Men's Protective Association:

First: That we recognize the fact that the proper regulation of railroad rates is now the most important question before the people of Kentucky, as well as the people of the United States at large, for discussion and settlement, and that it will require the best thought of men who have carefully studied the conditions properly to adjust rates so that they shall not be extortionate and communities shall not be discriminated against;

Second: That the Bowling Green Business Men's Protective Association recognizes in the Hon. C. C. McChord a faithful, intelligent, efficient and honest public official, who has given great care and study to "railroad regulation," and who has the courage to be just to the shippers and at the same time just to the railroads;

Third: That the Bowling Green Business Men's Protective Association appreciates the valuable services he has already rendered the people of Kentucky in his present position and believes that if he is permitted to continue in such position the good already accomplished is but a foretaste of the benefit of a Railroad Commission which is not content to be a mere sinecure, but which undertakes to faithfully execute the duties required by law;

Fourth: That the Bowling Green Business Men's Protective Association feels that the people of Kentucky could ill afford to lose the services of so able an expert as the Hon. C. C. McChord, just at this time when the question of the regulation of railroad freight rates is on trial and the people of his district are, therefore, urged to stand loyally by him in his fight for re-election, and the Secretary of the Association is directed to transmit to Mr. McChord a copy of these resolutions with the best wishes of this Association.

Whereas, the Lumbermen's Club of Louisville, Kentucky, is in receipt of certain resolutions passed by the Bowling Green Business Men's Protective Association endorsing the Hon. C. C. McChord, Chairman of the Railroad Commission of Kentucky, for re-election, which resolutions are heartily endorsed by this Club, and

Whereas, the said Hon. C. C. McChord has rendered signal service to the shippers of this State during his entire career, and especially by reducing the Louisville rate twenty-five per cent and thus putting our city and surrounding territory on an equality rate with the city of Cincinnati and by beginning, over ten years ago, the fight for interchangeable switching and continually pressing same until a favorable decision was recently rendered by the Court of Appeals of Kentucky, now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Louisville Lumbermen's Club:

First: That we recognize in the Hon. C. C. McChord a faithful, untiring and incorruptible public official who by years of intelligent work and study has equipped himself to be, and now is one of the ablest railroad commissioners in the United States with the ability and courage to do justice to both shippers and carrier;

Second: That as a club we disclaim any political allegiance with any party, our membership being composed of members of various political parties, but we take this action because we deem the matter one of business rather than politics, feeling that it is the duty not alone of all shippers, but also of all public spirited citizens who desire the development of our State's great natural resources to give to Mr. McChord their loyal and active support.

(Louisville Evening Post.)

We note that it is proposed, in the face of the refusal of the Republican Committee of this railroad district to provide for a Republican candidate for Railroad Commissioner, to place the name of Mr. Tarleton under the log cabin.

This is a tactical error, and is the worst kind of politics. Mr. Tarleton is no doubt an excellent gentleman, but he is not experienced in transportation matters, and he does not carry his party's commission. He is a personal candidate forced on the ticket in the face of the adverse action of the party committee.

But if it were otherwise, if Mr. Tarleton were the regular Republican candidate, Republicans as well as Democrats should vote for Mr. McChord because of the record he has made.

The office is not a political office, and the work Mr. McChord is doing is for the benefit of men of all parties.

Mr. McChord has brought down on his head the wrath of some railroads in politics, because he has been partly responsible for the order reducing the local rate into Louisville to the basis of Cincinnati rates from Kentucky.

The railroads are discriminating against Louisville in this feature of rates. They are making local traffic rates to Cincinnati which they refuse to Louisville. The Commission has ordered a reduction for Louisville to the Cincinnati basis.

The railroads resist in the Federal courts, saying the reduction would be ruinous, would be confiscatory, admitting that competition has forced down the rates into Cincinnati. Yet they are not ruined.

The Republicans, in view of this situation, declined to nominate against Mr. McChord. Certainly Louisville owes Mr. McChord its hearty support.

Editorial Louisville Herald (Republican)
Charles C. McChord was elected Railroad Commissioner ten years ago and was endorsed by the Republicans of the State. He has been a valiant champion of the people; indeed, at this moment we know of no public official Kentucky has to whom she could say with more candor, "Well done, good and faithful servant."

Mr. McChord has devoted the best part of his life to the cause of the people. He has been a staunch friend of Louisville merchants and manufacturers. He has been able to meet corporate greed with strict interpretation of the law, and in so doing has incurred corporate enmity.

The Herald holds no brief for Mr. McChord, but it would be careless of the duty it owes the public if it did not do the simple act of justice to an honest official.

WITHOUT A PARALLEL

For Inaccuracy, Misrepresentation and Deception, Are the Campaign Utterances of Former Governor Bradley.

Thus Says Governor Beckham In Notable Speech at Stanton.

The Democratic Chief Executive Does Not Mince Words In Dealing With His Predecessor.

Says His Charges Are as Reckless and Untruthful as in 1895 Campaign.

Tells Why Bradley Won't Discuss Goebel Assassination.

Stanton, Ky., Oct. 10.—Declaring that the Republican state campaign is based upon falsehood and deception, and that its chief exponent upon the stump, former Governor W. O. Bradley, is guilty in his speeches of perversion of records and distortion of facts in a vain effort to cover up the weakness of his cause, Governor Beckham in a speech to the voters here today handled his predecessor without gloves, not mincing words in answering the charges which Bradley is making. He denounced Bradley's utterances as "without a parallel for inaccuracy, misrepresentation and deception."

Charges Completely Riddled.

Taking up the statements and charges made by the former governor, the present chief executive riddled them completely, showing in detail wherein they are either childish or deliberate misrepresentations, and that the Republican method of peddling slanders, forgeries and false hoods is for the purpose, if possible, to divert the minds of the voters from the real facts. He charged the ex-governor with being the man most responsible for the temporary relief of the fugitive Taylor, and declared that Bradley might have averted the great calamity, the assassination of William Goebel, who once did him a great favor, if he had communicated to him instead of to those later charged with complicity in that monstrous crime, the fact that his life was being threatened by men brought to Frankfort by Taylor, Powers and others.

J. C. W. BECKHAM.

The Governor's Great Speech.

The speech of Governor Beckham, dealing with the charges of former Governor Bradley, and refuting them, is as follows:

In his carefully prepared speech at Princeton on Sept. 24th, which was printed in the newspapers, and in his subsequent speeches, Governor Bradley shows the utter weakness of the Republican cause in this campaign, and in effect confesses their inability to meet the real issues of it. With a lame and futile effort he seeks to ridicule what he cannot answer. He ignores many of the most important questions in the campaign, and by artful and ingenious deceptions undertakes to confuse the minds of the voters. He does not hesitate to disregard facts, pervert records and distort figures in his vain effort to cover up the weakness of his cause. I shall show before I get through with him that he has not only stated things which were untrue, but which he should have known to be untrue. His utterances in this campaign are as reckless and as untruthful as they were in the campaign of 1895, when, with false charges and promises, he deceived the people of Kentucky into electing him governor. In that campaign he slanderously charged the Democratic administration of the state with fraud and corruption, and promised to the people that if elected governor and his party placed in power when they could "get a look at the books," they would show up this fraud and corruption. For over four years he and his party had control of the state government, and he had the public records, and I repeat that they have never to this day reported the discovery of a single act of fraud or corruption upon the part of previous Democratic administrations.

Pitiful and Childish. But how does the distinguished ex-governor, when confronted with this answer to his charges in this campaign, seek to excuse it? In his speech he says: "In 1895, when the Republicans went into office, there was not enough money in the treasury to pay an expert bookkeeper to look at the books on account of Democratic indebtedness. This is so pitiful and childish that no intelligent citizen will let him off with such an excuse. He had under his own appointment a state inspector and examiner, drawing $3,000 a year and expenses, with the right to employ assistants, whose duty it was, under the direction of the governor, to make such investigations of the books. Why doesn't Governor Bradley own up like a man and confess to the truth that they did make this investigation into the books and utterly failed to find anything wrong? His reference to the state treasurer is no credit to him or to his party, because that defalcation was discovered and exposed by a Democratic administration, and Tate's bondsmen forced to make good the loss to the state by Democratic officials." Bradley came into office. The promises which he and his party made in that campaign were equally as false and insincere as were the charges.

Every intelligent citizen in Kentucky knows that the administration of the state under Bradley and Taylor, from January, 1895, to February, 1900, was full of mismanagement, disaster and crime. It came into power under false pretenses and it went out under a load of criminal felonies and assassinations. Mr. Wilson, the Republican candidate for governor, whose chief spokesman Governor Bradley is, must stand upon that record of his party, and cannot expect to deceive the people again in this campaign. He has printed speeches, and there are three long volumes taken up with a jumbled mass of figures, so arranged as to confuse rather than to illuminate the subject. An expert accountant could not reach any intelligent conclusion from such an arrangement, and it is clear that Governor Bradley himself was lost in the statistical maze of his own figures. He cannot repudiate his responsibility for Taylor and Taylor's administration. No man was more responsible for Taylor's temporary relief than Bradley was; he was his chief counsel and adviser while Taylor was acting governor. He was in Frankfort all the time and was Taylor's leading attorney in the contest cases. His own administration was bad enough, but he and his party could not escape the building of such an administration—and this was accomplished during his administration. The new constitution of Kentucky was adopted in 1891, and here is Section 252: "It shall be the duty of the general assembly to provide by law, as soon as practicable, for the establishment and maintenance of an institution, or institutions, for the detention, correction, instruction and reformation of all persons under the age of eighteen years, convicted of such felonies and such misdemeanors as may be designated by law. Said institution shall be known as the House of Reform." The Democratic general assembly of 1895-97 had nothing to do with it. It is evident, therefore, that his statement which I have quoted is not only in conflict with the truth, but with the constitution and laws of the commonwealth.

Charge Falls to the Ground.

He states that while Taylor was governor there was a dual government in the state, and that the Democrats as well as the Republicans were expending the state's money. That is not true. I was sworn in as governor on February 3rd. The other Democratic officials were not sworn in until February 26th, and it was long after that before we paid out a cent of the state's money. So his charge that we were responsible for any of the reckless expenditures under Taylor falls to the ground. It is not supported by the records or facts, and nobody knows better than Governor Bradley the truth about it. He knows, too, that the Democratic administration afterward had to pay off the greater part of the expenses for Taylor's lawless soldiery as well as their debts incurred during that disastrous administration. According to his figures the state was in debt about $1,421,498 when he assumed office, $1,421,498. If we take his figures—and no one will believe that he has understated the amount—the records show that they left the financial affairs of the state infinitely worse off than they found them. Notwithstanding that his administration increased the tax rate from 42½ cents to 52½ cents on $100, and doubled the bonded debt of the state by borrowing $500,000. The records show that when the Democrats took charge in February, 1900, the state was in debt above its assets $1,599,657.36, and according to his own figures it shows that they left the state with a debt of $277,659.36 larger than the debt which he says existed when he came into office. These are the cold, plain facts, from which he cannot escape; which are clear to the simplest mind, and which he tries to dodge by printing three newspaper columns of misstatements and figures to confuse the minds of the voters.

He knows that the Democratic administration has wiped out the entire debt of the state which it found at the conclusion of the Republican administration, and yet he states, in this printed speech, that "the state is now in debt," and further he says "if the present administration has increased the taxes for general purposes, it has increased the value of property and still increases our debts. It will, if continued in office, land Kentucky in Hell eventually."

Why should the distinguished ex-governor deliberately make a statement that he and every other intelligent citizen in Kentucky knows to be untrue? Doesn't a subject of this importance deserve fair and honest treatment? Have not the people at least a right to expect that a man who has once held the exalted office of governor should tell the truth about these things? Doesn't he give our people credit for more intelligence than to think it possible for him and the other Republican candidates to deceive them, like he and Mr. Wilson deceived them in 1895?

State Entirely Out of Debt.

Not only is the state entirely out of debt, but with all of the money that the administration has expended for its public institutions, its schools, colleges and its new capitol and other worthy improvements, we will have in our treasury at the close of this administration the first of next January the splendid surplus of $1,250,000. I know that a superb showing like that is discomfiting to Governor Bradley and the other Republican candidates. They cannot answer it. They cannot by jugglery of figures escape it. But utterly fails to find anything wrong in deliberate misrepresentation and the peddling of slanders, forgeries and falsehoods to divert, if possible, the minds of the people from the real facts.

He states in his speech that this administration had appropriated $1,987,539.21, while we state that a larger amount has been appropriated for worthy purposes. If the gentleman will look on Page 21 of the Democratic campaign hand-book, a copy of which I presume he has, he will find a list of the items showing for what purposes each appropriation was made, amounting to $2,701,062.97, all of which will have been paid by the close of this administration and yet leave a surplus in the treasury as above stated. This list is taken from the records, and it will be easy for him to verify it. He says in his speech, "the Republican administration was not only economical; did not only pay off Democratic indebtedness, but it did many other worthy things."

In Conflict With the Truth. In the light of the facts which I have stated and which cannot be disputed, I submit to the intelligent voters this marvelous statement of the ex-governor. Of the "many worthy things" accomplished during his administration the only thing that he attempts to show is the establishment of the House of Reform. I shall quote his own words about this wonderful achievement, for which he claims credit, and then quote Section 252 of the constitution of the state, and let the voters pass an opinion for themselves upon the veracity of the ex-governor. Here is what he said: "For nearly 100 years Kentucky failed to erect any house of reform, but suffered children convicted of crime to be associated in the penitentiary with old and hardened criminals. It remained for a Republican governor to denounce this outrage and urge the building of such an institution—and this was accomplished during his administration." The new constitution of Kentucky was adopted in 1891, and here is Section 252: "It shall be the duty of the general assembly to provide by law, as soon as practicable, for the establishment and maintenance of an institution, or institutions, for the detention, correction, instruction and reformation of all persons under the age of eighteen years, convicted of such felonies and such misdemeanors as may be designated by law."

Said institution shall be known as the House of Reform." The Democratic general assembly of 1895-97 had nothing to do with it. It is evident, therefore, that his statement which I have quoted is not only in conflict with the truth, but with the constitution and laws of the commonwealth.

Willful Misrepresentation.

I shall refer to another deliberate and willful misrepresentation of him in which he states that I had held the Republican administration responsible for the entire $1,000,000 of bonded indebtedness which we found assumed by the state in February, 1900. I did nothing of the kind, for in my opening speech, and others, I have stated that when the Republican administration borrowed $500,000 they thereby "doubled the bonded debt of the state," which, of course, to any sensible man means that there was already a bonded debt of $500,000 when the Republicans doubled it.

Governor Bradley left my opening speech, as his speech shows, and said that I expressed it in that way. He charges that we have been collecting more taxes from the railroads than he did while he was governor. That is true, and we are glad that he has called attention to it. He says that under his administration the franchise valuation placed on the railroads for taxation was an average of $11,329,549.00, while under the Democratic administration the average has been $22,921,478. No one has complained that we have made the railroads pay exorbitant taxes, for they have properated more than ever before under Democratic administration, but we have compelled them to pay upon a fair valuation of their property. From his figures it appears that we have doubled the valuation upon them since his administration. The tax at 60 cents on this difference would be $7,740, which multiplied by 8 gives $61,920 more collected in taxes from this one source in the eight years of our administration than would have been collected under the valuation of the Republican administration. That increase alone is enough to pay for one-third of the cost of our new capitol. This is one of the things which goes to explain how the Democrats, with a less tax rate than the Republicans, have been able to do so much for the upbuilding of the state institutions. The records show that in 1895, the last year of Republican administration, there were only seven railroads assessed in the state for taxation, while in 1906, under Democratic administration, there were nineteen railroads assessed for taxation. There has been much improvement of railroads in the state under Democratic administration, and some few lines built, but not enough to make up the wide difference between 7 and 19. The Democratic general assembly of 1898 passed the McChord railroad rate bill, a measure of vast interest to our people, but the railroad companies, that measure and delayed its passage until 1900, when I became governor and signed it. Under that law our people have been saved thousands and tens of thousands of dollars from exorbitant charges and discriminations by the railroad companies. It is not surprising, therefore, that the Republican governor who vetoed that measure could find only seven railroad corporations in the state to tax. The Democratic administration has been fair and reasonable to the railroads, and encouraged their progress and development in the state, but it has also insisted that they shall bear their just portion of taxation and be fair and reasonable in their dealings with the people.

The Cause of Education. Governor Bradley says nothing at all about the schools and the cause of education because he knows that nothing was done for them during his and Taylor's administrations. He knows the vast good done for them under Democratic administration, and therefore ignores the subject. He does not even attempt to explain the flagrant action of his administration in the year 1899 in padding the school fund and increasing the school per capita to $2.70 for its effect upon the campaign of that year. Nor does he answer the charge that this inexcusable attempt for campaign material caused a deficit the following year of $147,000 in the school fund, which the Democratic administration had to make good by the railroad companies. It was to fall to $2.45. The Democratic administration has raised it from $2.45 to $3.40. It has increased the school term from five months to six months of free tuition throughout the commonwealth. It has established two normal schools for our teachers. It has given generously to the State College and to the State Colored Normal School. It has passed the school book bill in the face of his and his party's opposition, that gives to the school children of the state their school books at one-third less than they formerly paid. In the face of tion to advance the interest of Kentucky at the St. Louis and Jamestown expositions? Why did they leave the state they loved in the humiliating attitude of having no building? On the other hand I ask why does the ex-governor, in such a question, state a proposition which he knows to be untrue? This administration did make an appropriation in the general assembly of 1904 of $75,000 for an exhibit at the St. Louis exposition, and everybody knows, who visited that exposition, that Kentucky was one of the best represented states there.

Brazen Distortion of Facts.

It is impossible, with the limitations of time upon this address to recite all the bar-faced and brazen distortions of facts and perversions of figures in that remarkable speech of his. It is without a parallel for guacancy, misrepresentation and deception. Long as is that speech there is a conspicuous absence of any reference to the collection of the civil war claims by Capt. Calhoun. Why has the distinguished ex-governor nothing to say about that important matter which came up in his administration, and also in mine? His associate candidates have tried to make some capital out of the fee paid Capt. Calhoun for that work. The amount collected was $1,324,000, and Capt. Calhoun's fee was a little over $71,000, or a fraction more than 5 per cent, the lowest fee paid by any state in the Union for similar collections. Gov. Bradley knew of the existence of this claim because he approved vouchers for $575.00 for expenses for having it investigated. In a letter signed by his assistant adjutant-general, whom he appointed, that official says: "I will state that in the year of 1896 I learned of the decision in the New York case, and I at once sent about a thousand dollars. I came back to Frankfort and laid the whole matter before the governor and it seemed little faith was placed by the state administration in the success of prosecuting the claim and the governor and auditor decided that they would not advance expenses, etc., and the matter was dropped as I did not feel justified in advancing my own money. I had no doubt if I had done so I could have received a contingent fee of 25 per cent if I had taken the risk of collections."

If such a contract had been made by Gov. Bradley and the same amount had been collected then the fee for its collection would have been $230,000 instead of $71,000. But nothing further was done by that administration toward the collection of this money, and when I came into office I employed Capt. Calhoun to collect it. After that employment the distinguished ex-governor who had failed in his duty in the matter as governor sought to get employment with Capt. Calhoun and secure a part of the fee. He wrote the following letter to Calhoun:

"February 19th, 1902
"Dear Captain:—I notice that a bill has been passed authorizing the employment of counsel in collection of Kentucky war claim.
"I write merely to suggest that I might be of some assistance and will thank you if you see fit to make some suggestions concerning the matter.
"Your friend,
(Signed) "W. O. BRADLEY."

Facts Speak for Themselves.

These facts speak for themselves, and it is not necessary to aid anyone in forming a sensible conclusion about them. After his dereliction of duty as governor in regard to this important matter he sought to make amends by an attempt to divide the fee for collection with Capt. Calhoun. And yet he boasts of the "many worthy things" and the "splendid financial achievements" of his administration! He undertakes to justify his action in the election of 1899—his use of the military then, and at other times—but history has stamped with his vigorous disapproval those acts of his and his usurpations of power. No excuse whatever can be given for what he did, and time cannot wipe out the disgraceful blot of his unwarranted action in those matters. He says that Goebel and the Democratic ticket were not elected. The general assembly of the state said that they were. The courts, from the circuit court of the state to the supreme court of the United States vindicated that decision of the general assembly. In the election of 1900, when I was the candidate of the Democratic party to fill out Gov. Goebel's unexpired term, the Republicans made that question an issue in the campaign. They had a corruption fund, furnished by the National Republican Committee, of $207,000 to defeat the Democratic ticket, and yet the people in that election endorsed the decision of their general assembly by electing me with nearly 4,000 majority. They further endorsed that action in the election of 1903 by electing our state ticket with nearly 27,000 majority. That question has been settled by every possible earthly tribunal, settled in every instance in our favor. He has the hardihood to boast of his action in using the militia at the polls in 1899, and yet he could not spend his remaining years with better grace than in the continual effort to apo-size to the people for that crime against free elections, and that blow at civil liberty. He spoils his argument by undertaking to refer to the election of 1905 in the city of Louisville, which was declared void by the court of appeals last spring. The history of that case shows that remedies for fraudulent elections may be found in our courts, and not by the use of military at the polls. His reference to that case was most unfortunate for there it was shown that a Democratic court would remedy such evils even where Democratic officials should lose their places, and in the opinion of the court in that case it was held that the use of military at the polls would invalidate an election.

His attempt to make fun of the election in the Bailey's Mill precinct in Franklin county, where it is claimed there were 104 votes fraudulently counted for the Democratic ticket amounts to little. The Democratic party condemns fraud in elections, and when this matter was brought to light a Democratic court and a Democratic grand jury promptly indicted the guilty parties.

One Fraud does not justify another, and yet it would be possible, if worth while, to show in that same election where far greater frauds, especially in some of the Republican counties, were committed against the Democratic ticket.

Might Have Averted Calamity.

When he undertakes to repudiate Taylor and his administration we confront him with his own bad record at that time. No man in Frankfort during those dark days did more to stir up the angry passions of the mob and bring about lawlessness and crime than did Governor Bradley, the friend and attorney of Taylor, in his violent and inflammatory utterances. In his sworn testimony as a witness in one of the Goebel assassination cases he admitted that he had been informed several times of the plot to murder William Goebel, and yet, although Goebel had once signally befriended him, he failed to go and warn him of his danger. He cannot excuse his failure to do so by saying that two or three of the fellows who were in the plot came and told him there was nothing in it. He cannot excuse it now by denouncing that assassination as an infamous outrage. With the information which he received, and which subsequent developments have shown to be correct, he might have averted that calamity and saved the life of the man who had once done him such a great favor. He was in the convention, his friend, Mr. Willson, and other Republican candidates were in that same Republican convention which "indorsed" without reserve the resolute and patriotic conduct of W. S. Taylor."

He bewails the fact that Democratic leaders in this campaign refer to all to the events of that dark and bloody period. We Democrats regret that it is necessary to refer to them, but we would be reluctant to our duty to the people if we failed to call attention to these matters that happened less than eight years ago, and which illustrate, more than words can picture, the character and results of Republican administration in this state. I state a fact that every citizen knows to be true, that the period from December, 1895, when Bradley became governor, to February, 1900, when Taylor was unseated, was the blackest and gloomiest in the history of this state, with the possible exception of the Civil war. The record of that administration is as barren as a desert. There was not a single good deed in it, nor a single event that marked advancement and progress for our people. From the gloom of such a disastrous record it is natural that these Republican candidates should turn in dismay and seek, by a resurrection of exploded slanders, forgeries and falsehoods, to mislead the minds of the people, and prevent them from considering the real issues of the campaign. If time would permit I could show in many instances where the candidates of the Republican state ticket, including Mr. Willson, have pursued the same policy as Governor Bradley did in this speech, and have deliberately misrepresented the facts and stated things which they knew to be untrue. In my campaign from one end of the state to the other I have been amazed at the extent to which some of these men have gone in their perversion of facts.

The Temperance Question.

Governor Bradley in his speech tries to belittle the temperance question in this contest, and says "probably the people at large would have more confidence in the professions of Beckham and Hager if they could show any act in favor of temperance during their official career." That means that the ex-governor states that nothing has been done for the temperance cause during this administration. The record of the laws passed and enforced by us is a complete refutation of this statement. There is no fair-minded, non-partisan temperance advocate in Kentucky who does not say that under this administration, and with its assistance Kentucky has obtained some of the wisest and best temperance laws that can be found in any state in the Union. These facts are so well known to our people that it is unnecessary to adduce further proof to show the falsity of his statement. Judge Hager and the Democratic candidates can point to the record of the Democratic administration upon this question as a guarantee of their sincerity and position on it. There is nothing plainer in this campaign than the effort of Mr. Willson to dodge, or straddle, this question. They cannot attack our position by the use of slander and calumny. The bitterness and unfairness of the distinguished ex-governor toward us can be accounted for to some extent by the fact that much of this temperance legislation which we have passed is distasteful to some of his best clients. Consequently, when he discusses this issue in the campaign we are unable to tell whether he is most representing these clients or the Republican ticket. But he should not allow his earnestness as an attorney to cause him to lose his temper and provoke him to make such vicious and unwarranted attacks upon us. The Democratic party has no apologies to make for its record upon this question, and confidently trusts that the people of the state will not be misled by the character of campaign waged upon its candidates by Governor Bradley and his satellites. The issue is so clear that those who run may read. It is a choice between the policies of the Bradley-Taylor administration, for which Mr. Willson stands, and the policies of the Democratic administration represented by Judge Hager and his ticket. No sensible, patriotic or intelligent citizen, can hesitate in such a choice. The campaign is now more than half over. I have been in every part of the state and it is my candid opinion from what I have seen and heard that the Democratic ticket will, Nov. 5, be elected by an overwhelming majority. The people of Kentucky love fair play and condemn hypocrisy. They are determined that a ticket like the Republican ticket, which bases its campaign upon falsehood and deception, shall not succeed in this glorious old commonwealth.

Stomach Muscles in Old Age

People should be more and more careful, as age advances, to see that their bowels move regularly. In this way they can keep themselves in good health and prolong life. The bowels are not as active in middle and old age as they are in youth, and with the majority there is a tendency to constipation of a chronic and obstinate nature.

To ward off the possibility of serious diseases use Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, the great herb laxative compound. It is especially suited to the use of elderly people because it is prompt but gentle in action, and does its work without griping or weakening, as is the case with salts, purgative waters and cathartic tablets. These should not be used by children, women, old folks or weak people because they are too violent in action and generally grip. Furthermore, the results are temporary as reaction sets in and the bowels are bound up more than ever.

A remedy like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is very gentle in action and yet thoroughly stimulative, and as it contains tonic properties, it strengthens the system instead of weakening it. The results are permanent because weakness, and many can in a short time do away with the use of all laxatives. It will cure the most chronic constipation, dyspepsia, liver troubles, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, and all ailments arising from indigestion and such other stomach, liver and bowels troubles.

To prove how effective it is in serious cases the remarkable cure of the remarkable case of Denatur, Ill., can be cited. He suffered from a gunshot wound during the Civil War which caused a partial paralysis of the bowels and he was unable to move since to use a laxative. He says he never found anything so effective, and it took him less time to nature, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Try it and you will say the same. The price is 50 cents or $1 a bottle at any drugstore.

FREE TEST

NO FEAR OF DEATH

Clarence Sturgeon, Condemned to Die, Expresses His Thoughts in Poetry.

(Courier-Journal.)

Lord, it belongs not to my care
Whether I die or live.
To love and serve Thee is my share,
And this my grace must give.

If life be long I will be glad,
That I may long obey.
If short, yet why should I be sad
To soar to endless day?

Christ leads me through no darker room
Than He went through before.
On one into His kingdom comes
But through His open door.

Come, Lord, when grace has made me meet
Thy blessed face to see!
For if thy work on earth be sweet,
What will thy glory be!

Then shall I end my sad complaints,
And weary sinful days;
And join with all triumphant saints
Who sing Jehovah's praise.

My knowledge of that life is small;
The eye of faith is dim;
But 'tis enough that Christ knows all
And I shall be with Him.

The above poem is contributed by Clarence Sturgeon, the twenty-year-old youth who is under sentence to be hanged on November 15, and which he says he composed last Friday night.

Sturgeon, who is confined in the county jail, said yesterday that the thoughts of the poem came to him as he lay in his cell studying over all that the future meant to him. As he idealizes in the poem, he said that the thought of dying has ceased to be by any means an unpleasant one and that he would rather die to-morrow than postpone it, since it has been decided that he must die. If he really composed the verses he has talents that have heretofore been hid. However, Sturgeon says he went to school only for the brief period of six years. His education is limited, and was secured at the public schools of Lebanon, his former home, and at the Bowling Green Academy. In talking of the poem Sturgeon said: "My education, I know, is poor, but it is not the result of learning that I wrote the poem. I believe it was a sort of inspiration that led me to form the verses. All of it comes as a result of the things I have been thinking over during these weeks since I have been in prison. Anyway, I think writing more of a gift than anything else."

More than two months ago Sturgeon accepted the Catholic faith, and says that he has become consecrated in his belief since. Twice each week he is visited in his cell by a priest, and scarcely an hour passes during which he does not turn to his Bible for comfort.

In conversation Sturgeon seems at all times elated and plainly states that he has never had a dread thought in connection with being hanged. He says that he now regrets that he tore up the two tablets of material which he wrote several weeks ago, and which he intended to have published in book form. The book, as Sturgeon says, was to have been a story of his early life, written with the purpose of being a benefit to young men. He says that he has come to believe that the greatest mistake that most boys make is that they leave their homes and the influence of their mothers too soon.

Sturgeon was visited at his cell yesterday by his father, George W. Sturgeon, a farmer and miller, of near Lebanon, and by his brother-in-law, George Conyers. He expects his aged mother to arrive during the early part of this week.

Shock Felt In Washington County.

The explosion of a powder mill at Fontanet, Ind., yesterday practically destroyed the little town of 1,000 inhabitants. It is estimated that two score people were killed and many injured. Every building in the town was razed to the ground. The plant was composed of seven factories.

The report and shock of the explosion was heard and felt by several people in this county, as well as in Louisville, Indianapolis and other cities and towns in Kentucky and Indiana. Mrs. Charles Noe says the shock of the explosion shook her residence and every window in the house rattled considerably.

Mr. William Good, of the Mooresville neighborhood, says he and others there both heard and felt the shock.

Methodist Church News.

No prayer meeting this week at the Methodist church and no preaching Sunday night on account of the meeting at the Christian church.

The members of the Home Mission Society of the Methodist church will entertain the ladies of the church at the paragon Thursday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock.

Jackson Nominated.

(Courier-Journal.)

Lebanon, Ky., Oct. 12.—Precinct conventions were held in Marion county this afternoon to select delegates to attend a county convention to be held here Monday for the purpose of selecting a candidate to oppose John Barr, the Democratic nominee for Representative in the Legislature. In every precinct the delegates were instructed to vote for T. C. Jackson. The only announced candidate was W. T. Hawkins, who was affiliated with the "dry" element in the recent local option contest. Mr. Jackson was on the "wet" side.

Card From Hawkins.

The following card appeared in the Lebanon Enterprise last week:

To the Republicans of Marion County:

The withdrawal of Mr. C. A. Johnston as a candidate for Representative before the Republicans of Marion county, leaves me the only aspirant. This nomination is sought by me at the hands of the REPUBLICANS. I am opposed in this matter by a class of Democrats who are using the Republican party of Marion county to promote their personal interests, backed by a few Republicans who desire life tenure in office. These Democrats are dictating to the Republicans who their nominee shall be. They are opposed to me because I exercised my privilege in the local option election last March, and are determined to select a nominee who has different views along that line and who will do their bidding should he be elected. Surely the Republicans of this county are not so inconsistent as to permit this influence to control their actions for the sake of a few votes of the "one day only" variety. These people are not Republicans, but a class of revengeful Democrats.

W. T. HAWKINS.

Six Carloads Shipped To-day.

Six carloads of the 1906 crop of pooled tobacco were shipped to Louisville to-day from the Washington County Tobacco Warehouse Company for storage in the Louisville Tobacco Warehouse. The crop is fast being shipped to Louisville for storage and the management hopes to have the full crop there in a short while.

Children Are Mongrels.

There is a good deal of mongrel about Chiloen society. Chiloens will tell you that they are descended from old Spanish families, but the old Spanish families were mostly turned out or massacred in the revolution against Spain, which arose mainly out of the wrongs of the mongrels. The descent in short, usually includes a slave native Indian woman years back, and the two types have mixed well, with handsome but very fiery results—Exchange.

Her Willingness.

"You must have been dreaming of some one proposing to you last night, Laura."

"How is that?"

"Why, I heard you for a whole quarter of an hour crying, but, 'Yes!'"—File-garde Blatter.

Natural.

Proud Father—My child is only a month old, and he cries for the moon.

Proud Mother—Mine isn't a week old, and he cries for the milky way.

Every side has its problem, by solving which humanity is helped forward.

Exchange in Neckties.

A South Penn square business man has evolved a plan of how to dodge "woof" but there is merit attaching to it in this case. His wife insists on buying his neckties and notes on lavender and red or green spots or a pale shimmering Nile green spot with purple. Rather than cause her anguish by seeming to deny her taste in cravats, her husband most discreetly starts for the office every morning wearing a tie of her selection. Once in the office, however, the traitor quickly exchanges an offending necktie for something of his own which he keeps under careful lock and key in his own private desk. It would be interesting to find out his wife's sensations should she pay him a visit some day in office hours or should he forget to make the exchange again before his trip home.—Philadelphia Record.

Hats With Tempers.

There are hats with tempers, as every woman is aware—the hats that "go out" beautifully one day and prove in the hat shop five minutes before they are bought and which in the next refuse to assume the right pose and poise for love or money. There are few conditions more trying than to fall under the sway of a hat of displeasure. The only thing to be done is to put it away for a week or so and wait till it has recovered from its temper, like a naughty child. One can argue with a hat and smacking it does not lead to recommendation.—London Queen.

A CULTURED BASS.

Higher Education Was the Ruin of This Intelligent Fish.

"Bass are intelligent little beasts. That is the reason they travel in schools," remarked Walter Dunning, an authority on fishing and a candidate for the nature fair class.

"I have frequently observed them studying," he continued, "whether it was better taste to swallow a minnow whole or on the installment plan. I have seen them seek knowledge concerning rubber frogs and, having made up their minds that it was a false friend, go off and warn their comrades."

"I have seen them studying weather conditions, coming to the surface, gazing intently at the sky, finding the direction of the wind and satisfying themselves whether tomorrow would be clear or rainy."

"All real fishermen can vouch for the statement that bass are fond of children. I have seen them eat up the little ones."

"Bass are natural defenders of the home life, and when a carp or catfish comes browsing around to devour the eggs the female had laid the male will attack the intruder by swimming under the enemy and slashing him with the sharp dorsal spine."

"I once knew a bass so intelligent that it refused to bite on the ordinary bait and was only caught after a page from an encyclopedia had been tied to the hook. Higher education was his finish."—Philadelphia North American.

IN THE SAME BOAT.

A Story of Samuel Warren and Matthew Davenport Hill.

Sam Warren, the author of "Ten Thousand a Year," has been the subject of many anecdotes, none of them better than one which I first heard related about him by his friend, Matthew Davenport Hill.

Looking in one day at Warren's chambers, Hill noticed that he seemed a little troubled. "It is," said the lawyer, "most unfortunate. I ought to have dined tonight with the lord chancellor, but Mrs. Warren is about to present me with another olive branch. How can I leave her? I hope his lordship won't be annoyed at my putting him off." "Oh," returned Hill, "don't make yourself uneasy. I am one of the guests. I know him so well I can put it all right for you." With these words the visitor prepared to leave the room.

At first profusely grateful, Warren presently seemed a little perplexed and said: "By the bye, after all, I won't trouble you to say anything about me to the chancellor. Between ourselves, I have not been invited."

"Well," rejoined Hill, "make yourself comfortable on that point. For that matter, neither have I!"—Pall Mall Gazette.

To Cure Blushing.

"A great many men blush," said a physician; "some so painfully that they come to me to be cured."

"The cure I recommend is an odd one. It is the abandonment of over-heavy clothing, especially of woollen socks. Amazing it is how many male blushers have a predilection for thick socks of wool."

"But some blushers wear light enough clothes. To them I can only recommend a nerve treatment. I advise them to make speeches at banquets, to be witnesses in murder trials, to go to teas and dances, to develop, in short, the nerve as a wrestler develops his muscle."

"Blushing is a difficult disorder to cure. As a rule it passes away of itself when the victim reaches his thirty-fifth year."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Lying.

It was said of Mr. Johnson that he always talked as though he were taking an oath. He detested the habit of lying or prevaricating in the slightest degree and would not allow his servants to say he was not at home if he was. "A servant's strict regard for the truth," said he, "must be weakened by such a practice. If I accuse my servant to tell a lie for me, have I not reason to apprehend that he will tell it for himself?" A strict adherence to truth the doctor considered as a sacred obligation, and in relating the smallest anecdote he would not allow himself the minutest addition to embellish his story.

The Transformed Pythagorean.

Some undergraduates once wished to play a practical joke upon a man who was a disciple of Pythagoras, so one day when he was a little sleepy by reason of the amount of brandy and soda that he had imbued his friends sneared him with honey and rolled him in the inside of a feather bed. When the disciple of Pythagoras got up in the morning he looked in the looking glass at himself and said slowly, with a whistle, "Bird, by Jove!"—London Telegraph.

Love and Hate.

Love once used is perhaps this time you may succeed in being loved back again.

Enemies are only useful as long as you are rising. Once at the top you must do away with them by making them your friends.—Polarograms of Queen Elizabeth (Carmen Sylva).

Making Sure.

"Dentist—He filled all of your teeth that have cavities, sir."

McIntire—Well, this, all the rest are thin too; thin while the cavities come they'll be already filled, b'gosh!"—London Tit-Bits.

The first farmer was the first man, and all his noble nobility rests on possession and use of land.—Emerson.

A LIVE CORPSE.

Supposed Dead Woman Creates Panic Among Mourners Invited to Funeral.

Wheeling, W. Va., Oct. 14.—Relatives of Mrs. Fred Hartzell, the young wife of a farmer living near Huntington, were bemoaning her death a few minutes before the minister arrived to conduct the last rites, when she suddenly sat up and climbed out of the coffin.

There was a rush of mourners for the open air, windows being used as exits. The minister swooned when a pale-faced woman over whose body he had been called to conduct services met him at the door.

The family were too poor to have a physician, and the woman fell into a swoon, in which state she remained four days. Her husband believed her to be dead and sent for the undertaker. He prepared for the interment without discovering that life lingered in the body.

A FEAST FOR FALL BUYERS

Is promised our customers in the many new and varied styles of

Fall and Winter Goods

NOW ON DISPLAY AT OUR STORE.

Now that the fall season is upon us, shoppers are confronted with the task of selecting their fall and winter wear and ordinarily it is a task to be gladly shunned. It is only when the store man has the interests of his customers truly at heart in selecting his stock and buying liberally and with a varied selection and good taste, that shopping is made a pleasure. That is why we are proud of our stock and anxious for the people to call and see our display. We bought early in the season when we got picking choice and exercised such care in the selection of every article that we feel we have the prettiest line of Fall and winter goods that was ever placed before the people of this county.

All the newest styles in Dress Goods, Ladies' ready-made garments, men's and boys' suits, ladies' and men's furnishings. We have everything in the latest fall styles to dress every man, woman and child from head to foot complete.

We bought to suit the varied tastes of our customers—we bought heavily of every design on the fashion plate—we bought from the fashionable highest priced fabrics to the medium and low priced goods, but all conforming to the styles of the season. WE BOUGHT TO PLEASE OUR CUSTOMERS, WHOSE TASTES WE HAVE LEARNED.

Now there's another matter we want to talk about to you—one that vitally interests you.

IT IS THIS:
YOUR POCKET-BOOK

As you probably know, the price on every article of goods for fall and winter wear has advanced out of all proportions. Merchants are being compelled to pay big prices for their goods and of a necessity have to charge their customers accordingly. THAT'S CERTAIN. But while others were caught unawares, we studied the situation and with long experience and business foresight we got into the market for our fall and winter goods before the advance in prices. Therefore, we are taking things easy—and intend to make our customers take things easy—no matter how the prices soar. OUR GAIN IS OUR CUSTOMERS' GAIN. Our shelves are full of the newest goods, but we are not going to let them cost our customers a penny more than if the prices had never raised. COME AND SEE

Grundy & McIntire,
Springfield, Kentucky.
